QUELL REVOLT, VLADIVOSTOK

General Gaida, Leader, Wounded, Captured, May Be Deported

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—The revolution at Vladivostok has been quelled, dispatches today to the state department said.

The reports received by the state department indicate that the revolt was organized and led by General Gaida. After General Gaida was wounded, he surrendered with several officers, and probably will be deported, the report said. Members of the government which was organized under cover of Gaida's revolt, have disappeared.

One American sailor was wounded by a stray bullet while on the deck of the U. S. S. New Orleans, and two British officers are reported killed or wounded while doing Red Cross work.

Those taking part in the revolt did not exceed 100 men, it was reported. General Gaidich is reported to have been taken to the city of Vladivostok, where he is being held by the Russian army in western Russia.

WANTS SPECIAL RATE GRANTED TO ALASKA

NENANA, Alaska, Nov. 19.—Granting of a special passenger rate to Alaska, is the suggestion emphasized by Attorney-General J. C. Murphy of Alaska, for swelling the population of the territory, which, Alaska papers bitterly point out, has shown pitifully small growth during the more than fifty years under American rule.

Mr. Murphy has embodied his view in a statement presented to the territorial shipping board. He believes transportation companies operating to Alaska should first meet Alaska's demand for special passenger rates, which, falling their assent, the federal government should take up the matter.

CLAIMS ABILITY TO BRING DEAD TO LIFE

RANGOON, India, Nov. 19.—The Rangoon Times has published details of the claim of a Burmese woman doctor to bring the dead back to life.

The woman states that when revived the dead person has a new mind and better features than the treatment must be continued for a month.

RUMANIANS FAVOR ENGLISH CAPITAL

BERNE, Nov. 19.—The Rumanian Bureau states that newly-formed English companies, backed by English banks, have begun operations in Transylvania. They have bought a large potato plant, from which, corn and glass plants and are now negotiating to purchase all the important coal, gold and copper mines in the country.

The Rumanians welcome English interest and capital in Transylvania, and the fact that have been neglected in past years owing to lack of capital although there is plenty of natural wealth.

American capitalists are also obtaining important concessions in Rumania, especially in oil mines.

GERMANY ALARMED BY DEMANDS OF ENTENTE

Housing of Military and Naval Commissions Is Problem

BERLIN, Nov. 19.—Germany is fairly dazed by the demands and requirements of the Entente military and naval commissions for the housing of their supervisory forces, which, according to the press treaty, may have their headquarters at the seat of the German government, and place sub-commissions at any desired point in Germany.

The Entente has given notice that it will send a chief commission to Berlin, and ten sub-commissions to other points. It demands from Berlin, hotel accommodations comprising 300 rooms, housing for 300 non-commissioned officers and men, and storage facilities for sixty automobiles. These are the requirements for the army and naval forces.

For the air forces the Entente wants 200 rooms in a hotel, 100 office space, housing for 400 persons and garage space for sixty automobiles. These figures look large to Germans, for guests at all the big hotels even now are happy to be able to creep into a bathroom and snatch some sleep.

The council of states has decided that the money agreed upon to furnish quarters for the Entente military and naval commissions was not enough. It is, however, more than money, that is worrying the government.

The government has made a beginning by announcing that it will place one hotel which has 155 rooms, and use the building in Wilhelmstrasse, now the headquarters of the press division, for office space.

Another hotel has been confiscated for the air division. That, however, leaves a big gap between what can be supplied and what is demanded. The government may perhaps have the many suggestions made recently for using various former royal and princely castles, which would relieve the strain on the already overstrained Berlin hotels.

ELEVEN STATES HOLD IRRIGATION MEETING

To Consider Methods of Conserving Flood Waters

SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 19.—Representatives from California, Oregon, Washington, Arizona, Colorado, New Mexico, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, Wyoming and Utah were gathered here tonight for a two-day irrigation conference of the western arid states which has been called by Governor D. W. Davis, of Idaho.

Methods of storing flood waters from streams for irrigation purposes by means of dams and reservoirs will be considered and legislative action to be taken by the United States congress regarding irrigation is to be outlined. Governor Davis is said to favor a recommendation of the meeting that in necessary for a decision on the latter question.

Governor Davis, during the past few weeks has received many letters from irrigators throughout the west putting their stamp of approval on the meeting.

A 100 per cent attendance of delegates is expected as Governor Davis is sounding the call for the meeting and the governors to appoint no one who would be unable to attend. Each state, it is expected will be represented by one or more delegates. Utah's delegates, among whom will be Governor Simon Elmore, are expected to number sixteen. Idaho, it is known, is sending thirty-four representatives.

The state of Utah has been co-operating with Governor Davis in every way possible to make the meeting a success.

NEAR BEER AND SHOES MIX AT THIS NEW YORK BAR

Buying shoes over the bar.

Business is very good at the near-beer and shoe emporium of Samuel Brenner, in New York City. Mr. Brenner should manifest concern over the prohibiting of booze containing more than a half of one per cent kick. His eye for business led to the purchase of a stock of ladies' and gentlemen's shoes, which he dispenses with the weak beer. "My system," says Mr. Brenner, "is to give with each pair of shoes five glasses of beer free of charge. I give the customer one glass when he starts to buy, and the other four whenever I think he may change his mind." Here is shown a young lady who evidently understands what the rail is for—purchasing a pair of shoes over Brenner's bar.

WARNING, REDS PLAN OUTRAGES

Plot Said to Have Been Revealed to Police, Philadelphia

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Department of Justice officials tonight without information as to the disclosure of the Philadelphia police, of a nationwide plot to kill federal state and municipal officials by bombs at Christmas time.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 19.—A warning issued today by the superintendent of the police that information was reached him that a possible bomb outrage at Christmas time, through sending of gift packages to national, state and city officials throughout the country, had caused federal and state officials to take extra precautions to prevent any proposed plots, by radicals or others.

James H. Hinkle, the superintendent, said, tonight, he had nothing to add to the warnings he issued today. He did not know what persons were marked by the supposed plotters, nor did he know who was plotting, nor did he know what the plot was. The information he has in his possession, he said, came to him in the course of investigations by the police, which found into local radical activities.

BRITISH NAVAL LOSS IS 1069 WARSHIPS

LONDON, Nov. 19.—British naval losses during the war totaled 1069 vessels according to a detailed return just issued by the Admiralty. Of these 254 were warships and 315 auxiliary vessels of the Royal Navy.

Of the warships, thirteen were battleships, three battle cruisers, thirteen cruisers, twelve light cruisers, including six sunk as big ships at sea, three submarines, five destroyers, four torpedo boats, and fifty-four submarines (including seven destroyed at Heligoland to avoid capture).

Only forty-two warships were lost in action, sixty-two falling victims to submarines and forty-four to mines. Eleven were destroyed to avoid capture and twenty-eight were lost in collision. Twenty-two were wrecked, five lost by internal explosions and seven by accident while in twenty-six cases the cause of the loss was listed "unknown."

THRACIAN REFUGEES APPEAL TO WILSON

SALONIKA, Nov. 19.—The appeal by the League of Nations to President Wilson, asking him for his support of the movement to unite Greece with Greece, has been signed by 77,350 Thracian refugees in the Salonika region, and a semi-official statement issued here. With the signatures of Thracians from other parts of Macedonia and Old Greece the total number of signatures affixed to the appeal is about a quarter of a million.

TRADE WITH NORWAY RAPIDLY DEVELOPING

CHRISTIANIA, Nov. 19.—There are abundant signs everywhere of the development of broader commercial relationships of Norway and the United States, according to Marion Fletcher, American consul-general. In a statement concerning the Norwegian American Exhibition here Mr. Fletcher said:

"From 1914 to 1918 trade with Norway was exceedingly light, but now notwithstanding the long and expensive freight haul American commodities are almost as common in Christiania as in New York. A number of Norway's enterprising young men have come over to our country during the last several months to study these conditions at first hand and to form connections here."

"This exhibition, which is confined practically to goods to be displayed by Norwegian representatives of American firms, will emphasize the value of doing business through direct Norwegian representation rather than through distributing agencies located in other countries, and I am sincerely hopeful that American business men will not fail to see the force of this lesson."

"Up to the present the trade that has sprung up between the two countries has been largely confined to the sale of American goods and I am sure that in the future we shall be able to understand this and prepare for more permanent relationships through fixed local representatives."

WILL FIX LOCATION OF MEXICAN BORDER

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 19.—Commissions representing the United States and the Mexican governments will meet soon in Monterey, Mexico, to define the exact international borders of the two countries, according to newspapers here. The U. S. commission has already been accepted as the boundary line but of late it has shown an erratic disposition, at many places leaving its old bed and wandering aimlessly north and south, and it is deemed expedient to fix the boundary by other means.

Luis B. Hill, Henry P. Corbin and W. V. Tindley are named as the American commissioners. Antonio Prieto will head the Mexican representatives.

BRITISH OFFICERS SETTLE IN MEXICO

LONDON, Nov. 19.—Brigadier-General A. C. Ritchie, is going to take a chosen party of fifty fellow British officers to settle on a million-acre ranch about 100 miles north of Mexico City. He says Mexico is "the coming country of the world."

Discussing the reported opposition to his colonization scheme of the British and American governments, he said:

"We are not going out to stir up trouble. I have no urgent need of taking the officers with me, but I want to give the lady a chance if they've got enough grit in them to make good, and I want company. With my father and my brother are coming with me, but with fifty Britishmen in the party we can be very happy."

DRY ACT TO BE ARGUED TODAY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—The supreme court will hear arguments tomorrow on the constitutionality of the war-time prohibition act. Involved in three appeals from federal court rulings. One from Kentucky declared the act invalid and two from New York upheld it.

Owing to the short time elapsing before constitutional prohibition becomes effective, an early opinion by the court is anticipated.

JAIL JENKINS AT PUEBLA CITY

Charged With Making Threats Against Opposing Witnesses

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 19.—William O. Jenkins, United States consular agent at Puebla, was jailed in the penitentiary there this afternoon, according to advices. Whether Jenkins was given for bail is not known, but it is expected that he will remain in the penitentiary tonight.

The arrest of Jenkins follows a formal order for his arrest by the criminal court. In Puebla Tuesday Jenkins is charged with making false statements and threatening persons who were alleged to have given incriminating evidence against him.

British Fire on Cairo Agitators

Information also was received today that J. Hardecke, British consular agent at Cairo, was killed by British troops in the kidnapping plans of the Cerebia rebels, and had only succeeded in making his escape through the instrumentality of American Charge d'Affaires Sumner.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—A long report was received at the state department today from W. O. Jenkins, American consular agent at Puebla, who was kidnapped by rebels under Federico Canabal, and released after payment of a ransom of $150,000. The statement was prepared by Jenkins at the embassy in Mexico City soon after he was released by the bandits and previous to his second arrest. Its contents were not made public, pending a more detailed examination by Secretary Lansing.

MEXICANS HAVE NO SILVER FOR CHANGE

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 19.—The most persistent phrase encountered by the buying public in Mexico at present is "No hay cambio," "there is no change." The silver in the country is so scarce that the smaller coins are worth more than the face value of the coin, so this money has been hoarded by many persons and sold for their silver content.

"The result is that the 'cambio' or change, has disappeared, and persons who buy or sell are forced to pay from 5 to 7 per cent for silver pieces from brokers, most merchants refuse to make small sales if they are forced to give change, asserting that they would lose money in the transaction."

The "cambio," or Mexican twenty-cent piece (gold) is practically useless as money in stores or cafes, when the purchase is for a small amount.

"Tonight as well he broke as have including the 'cambio' an American who was hungry and could not find a cafe to change his gold. Later he hit upon a unique scheme. He deposited his piece with the cafe proprietor and propounded a question: 'If you had no more credit, which, with prevailing prices, was not a long time.'

Expel Russians From Casa Grande

TUCSON, Ariz., Nov. 19.—Russian colonists were deported from Casa Grande, Pinal county, Arizona, Saturday by members of the American Legion, according to word brought here today. Real estate men refused to sell them land because they had refused to do military service. A colonizing agent was located on the case with them.

WORK ALL NIGHT TO SINK BURNING SHIP

LISBON, Portugal, Nov. 19.—A Portuguese gunboat was kept busy all night recently trying to sink an American steamer built of concrete. The vessel, the Milton, 2500 tons, from New York, with a cargo of coal caught fire when lying in the river Tagus.

The whole vessel was ablaze in less than half an hour. It was feared that the anchor chains might snap and the ship be carried away and set other ships on fire, so it was decided to destroy the ship by gunfire.

After the gunboat had fired 300 shells at her, the Milton slowly heeled over and disappeared from view. Lisbon's population turned out in their thousands to witness the suggestive sight.

"Create a Demand"

If avocados were suddenly grown in enormous quantities, the growers would have to "create a demand" or their fruit would rot on the ground.

Ukuleles would have been a drug on the market before the discovery of the beach at Waikiki.

Usually, however, creating a demand means concentrating an already existing demand on some one brand or trade-mark in that field.

Morris does not need to create a demand for ham—but his advertising may concentrate the ham lover's appetite on the Morris brand.

Advertising will induce people to eat alligator pears or ripe olives, and it will also sell Goodyear's to a man wanting tires.

Could not advertising create or concentrate public patronage for you in your business?

AMERICA ALONE

The Senate has lived down to its slogan of "America alone." For, alone of all the nations in the world, the United States has refused to ratify the peace with Germany, or to join the league which was to maintain that peace. To be sure, if we were to back out at all, it is well to have done so directly. Any treaty which really needed these Senate reservations was not fit to pass even with them, and the Senate did the holiest thing in killing it outright, instead of hamstringing it. It was doomed, anyway. The President could not have resubmitted it, with these reservations, or, if he had, the other nations would have refused to agree to them. It was merely a question who should do the killing, and Congress did well in finishing the job at the first blow. Unless we were willing to join the other nations decently, it was better not to join at all, and to make our nation a self-chosen outcast from the world. That is a shameful enough role, but it is at least better than playing the sneak.

But what are these precious "reservations," over which we have broken with the world? Most of them—the ones which the treaty forces offered to compromise on—are merely superfluous and ridiculous. Five of them, for instance, specify that certain powers which the Constitution confers on Congress still remain in Congress. A reservation that twice two is still four would be as sensible. Three of them specify that certain questions, which the rest of the world has agreed to leave to the League of Nations, the United States demands the special privilege of judging for itself. And the preamble requires the other nations expressly to agree that the United States shall have these privileges which they have foregone for themselves. Two of them wash our hands of the principal world settlements of the treaty, as morally unworthy even of our formal assent. One of them requires Japan and England formally to approve our repudiation of the Shantung settlement and our threat to make war on Japan after it. Another requires England to agree that Canada and Australia shall not vote. Another refers to each future Congress to determine whether the world policy of respecting the integrity of nations shall, for that Congress, be the policy of the United States. And one of them, recommended by the committee, though fortunately not passed by the Senate, repudiated all the rest of America's obligations under the treaty, and required the other nations to consent that we should have all the rights and none of the duties provided. Of these reservations, it will be seen that the mild and harmless ones were ridiculous, and could only be justified by an attitude of suspicion which would better justify staying out altogether, while the serious ones were of a sort which other nations could not possibly accept. It was therefore fairer to reject the treaty ourselves than to pass it to them to reject.

If this is to be our national course, we ought in all fairness to go the rest of the way. Let us at least quit our hypocritical cant about Shantung. We have made it none of our business what Japan does to China, or Turkey to Armenia. Incidentally, we have some very practical matters to settle. We have retained a lot of German ships, but have refused to agree to the provisions for their transference. Let us simply grab them, and defy the world to take them away. We have sequestered hundreds of millions of property owned by Germans in America, and Germany has sequestered a smaller amount owned by Americans in Germany. Let us grab whatever we like here, and then send an army to Germany, to stop Germany from grabbing anything there. The foreign trade of Germany is in control of the Allies. They will arrange it to suit themselves. If we do not like their arrangements, let us trade with Germany any way we please, and send our navy to defy the Allied regulations. We have repudiated Japan's agreement to settle our numerous disputes by negotiation. Let us therefore pile up ships and munitions and men on the Pacific coast, to be prepared to settle them by war, on an instant's notice. We have kicked ourselves out of the world's commercial arrangements. Let us, therefore, be prepared to batter our way into them, with the cannon. We have repudiated the world's financial organization. Let us therefore store all the gold in this country, and let the rest of the world go bankrupt and starve, while we make our livings taking in each other's washings. For if our slogan is to be "America first and America ONLY," we had better prepare to live up to it.

Of course it is to be hoped that none of this will have to happen. The next move is up to President Wilson and the foreign offices of the other great nations. They may, somehow, find a way out for us, and the Senate, next month, may somehow be brought to take that way out. The present situation is too shameful to last. The world is in a sorry enough shape, but it must not be so sorry as this.

KINDERGARTEN TACTICS

Probably the most bitterly discussed question on the failure of the peace treaty will be the actually unimportant one, "Whose fault was it?" This ought not to be the question, but it will be.

Well, some of the fault was undoubtedly President Wilson's. He is not a good kindergarten manager, and he overlooked the fact that the Senate is a kindergarten. For instance, when in the very first instance, Senators Knox and Lodge, and Elihu Root, suggested certain changes in the league covenant, President Wilson naively supposed that it was sufficient for him to take those suggestions to Paris himself and get them adopted. With his peculiarly dramatic and impersonal mind, he did not realize that the question who does a thing is much more important than the question what is done. He was innocent enough to think that if he did the things which Root, Knox and Lodge wanted done, that would satisfy Root, Knox and Lodge. Any good kindergarten could have told him better. What he should have done was to let Root, Knox and Lodge do it themselves. They would probably have got only half as much, but they would have been satisfied with that half.

President Wilson sincerely believes that he consulted with the Senators and with the people, and really carried out their ideas. Doubtless he thinks he consulted with his associates at Paris. In everything except the personal sense he did. He got their ideas, and so far as possible he secured their acceptance. What he forgot was that it is the personal recognition that counts. As a tactician, dealing with the vanities of men, President Wilson is a failure. But if the President is at fault for not having used good kindergarten tactics with the Senate, is not the Senate more at fault for having needed these tactics? The President was at least tactically right. The Senate was childishly wrong. The President has his faults, which are properly entered on the debit side in appraising his personal temperament. But the public issue is not whether his manner is tactful or tactless, but whether his policies are good or bad. And the President, by endangering a good policy by a bad manner, is mildly at fault. But the Senate, by repudiating a good policy for petty resentment at the bad manner, is grossly at fault.

Most of all, our irresponsible and unrepresentative system is at fault. In no other free country could the nation have been represented by a man not definitely representative both of the people and of the legislative government. We, on the contrary, were represented by a President elected on other issues, whom, doubtless also on other issues, the people had just voted against, and who was completely out of harmony with the legislative body which must pass on his acts. It is a disjointed, irresponsible, unrepresentative system, which this time, at a crisis in the world's history, broke down.

LIBERTY AND LAW

Mayor John Galvin of Cincinnati the other day severely censured members of the American Legion for riding the headquarters of the Socialist party and burning a quantity of literature there found. The mayor described the raid as mob rule and denounced it as unpatriotic.

This is another angle of a situation which is now rapidly developing and it is one which we fear executives will be forced to take rather firmly. The attitude of the American Legion and of its members individually in opposing I. W. W.-ism and bolshevism is one of the most wholesome signs in America. It is opposing on a wholesale scale old-fashioned American patriotism to new-fangled imported European radicalism. It is a conflict which is bound to come and in which the sympathies of all sound Americans will be with the American Legion. So wholesome a sentiment ought not to be unduly suppressed, even if it sometimes breaks out in forms that are not to be commended.

But when the anti-bolshevist sentiment takes the form of lawlessness and of actual mob violence, (except, of course, under such extreme provocations as the recent lynching in Centralia,) it becomes a contradiction of its own purpose. We have had occasion in the past to protest against the mobbing and deportation of I. W. W.'s by committees of business men representing the reactionary principle of class government by the business class. Now the outbreaks are usually by former service men representing the much better principle of democratic government on American ideals by the people. But neither aristocracy nor democracy can safely be founded on the principle of lawlessness. The "direct action" of the I. W. W.'s is objectionable, not merely because they use it to a wrong end, but because lawless action in a civilized state is dangerous even when used to a right end. If these former service men wish to stand up, as very commendably they do, for old-fashioned American ideals, they should realize that both halves of the phrase, "Liberty regulated by law" must be preserved. The I. W. W.'s are the enemies both of liberty and of law. The patriotic veterans must be the defenders both of liberty and of law.

NEW CONFERENCE

President Wilson has appointed a new industrial conference, this time of an entirely different sort. On it are three former members of his cabinet and one or two other members of previous cabinets, three former governors of states, several university professors, Herbert Hoover and several business men, all of the intellectual and sociological sort. It is a much more characteristic Wilson body than the former one and if its purpose were academic it would be a much more competent set of men. It is composed of persons of extraordinary intelligence, fine sociological insight and exceptional equipment. As a high-brow body it is ideal. It will not break up in a row and it will present a report which will be a monument of sound thinking and good writing. No university president could wish a better committee.

The doubt is whether this sort of a body will be of any use in solving the practical problems on which the other body has so conspicuously failed. There are plenty of academic sociologists and altruistic millionaires now who have written excellent treatises on the subject. Bound in hand-tooled morocco, they would adorn any library shelf. But what is wanted is a body of practical men who can not merely reach a practical conclusion, but can have the contacts to get that conclusion adopted. Judge Gary, for instance, would have been an ideal man of this sort, if he had not been too pigheaded. Professor Taussig could reach a wiser conclusion; but Judge Gary, if he could have been brought to an agreement, could have put this agreement adopted. In the same way, there are members of this commission who keenly appreciate the labor point of view. They will propose intelligent labor measures. But if, instead, these conclusions were reached by Samuel Gompers and presidents of the principal unions, there would be much more likelihood of getting these conclusions adopted. The new experiment will be interesting and its work will at least be intelligent. We wish we might hope that it would also be practically valuable.

THE SOURCE OF WAGES

Under our capitalistic system the wages of both capital and labor are paid out of production and out of nothing else. Capital does not pay wages and it could not pay them for more than a week or two at the most, even if it wanted to, any more than a camel could indefinitely on its hump. Without production the distribution of wages, or working hours, or conditions is academic. This is one of the chilling facts of existence. Representation in industry then is valuable when it aids in production and in the fair distribution of its profits of production. It is a means to an end and not an end in itself. Samuel Crowther in the World's Work.

DIFFERENT TYPES OF CHILDREN AND SOCIAL LIFE OF KINDERGARTENS

The "Professorial Type" of Child, the Child Who is Painfully Shy, and the "Poor Little Only Child" Alike Receive Benefit From the Kindergarten's Social Life.

(By Julia Wade Abbott, Specialist in Kindergarten Education, Bureau of Education, Department of the Interior.)

Part II.
It is most interesting to watch how children of different temperaments and with different home training find themselves in the social life of the kindergarten.

There is the professorial type of child who has an academic type of mind. He takes to books as a duck to water, and he is a natural leader of grown-up people and he is indifferent to games. He does not want to join the group, he wants to be alone.

But his is the type of child whose parents (if they are the right kind) will have to drive him out of the house to play after school hours, when he is in the grades. His physical and his social needs must be developed, his mental hunger will be a care of the development of his mind.

Too often the vanity of parents makes them take pride in the rapidly with which this academic type of child advances through the grades. They compare him with the neighborly child, a jolly, normal little individual whom the other boys on the playground recognize as twice as much of a boy as the little professor.

Children that have a hunger for books should have that hunger satisfied, but education should give a balanced training, and no child can develop into the right type of human being who has not had the normal, child-like experience of the give and take of play life with other children. Another type of child that does not fit into the group is the child who is painfully shy. A shy child suffers so acutely in the presence of other people that it is natural to protect him and keep him in retirement. But the child who is shy in his existence he will have to come out from his isolation and mingle with people and take his place in society. It is sometimes easier for the bashful child to enter a primary school than a kindergarten.

Several substantial men in San Francisco have taken hold of the matter and Mr. Holden may be looked for in a few days to commence preparations for building. At Fresno this on Thursday last, while under the influence of "bug" juice, Thos. Edwards stabbed Jack Dooly in the back. The cutting was done with a common pocket knife making a painful but not dangerous wound. The men had previously been good friends. Edwards is in jail and Dooly is about town as usual. To Continue Work.—A meeting will be held in Oakland, Monday, of Progressive Republicans from all over California, under the auspices of the executive committee of the Lincoln Roosevelt League, to take steps for the further organization of this work of Progressive Republicanism in California. Just what that meeting will do, of course, no one can predict, but we may be certain that the work will be inaugurated with renewed courage and with wisdom gained of experience.

For forty years, right-minded men in California have been protesting and fighting against the domination of the government by a corrupt political machine. Financed and organized always by the thousand-dollar railroads. On rare occasions, that fight was organized. Whenever it was organized, complete or partial victory was obtained. Unorganized fight has been almost uniformly futile. Two years ago, the Lincoln Roosevelt League was organized.

With imperfect equipment, no campaign fund (it never spent $1000 all told) no men expert in the details of state politics, a primary law which literally stole nearly half the vote and with all the plunger work to do, the Lincoln Roosevelt League accomplished under all the conditions were really astounding results. It succeeded, directly or indirectly, in securing reform government in nearly every city in California. The recent reaction that threw out some of these reform governments occurred during a lull in the activity of the league. It succeeded in electing the decentest legislature California has had in the memory of man. It was not done enough by any means, but between the actively decent men and the well-informed who were the plunger work, it was possible in this legislature to force, through considerable reform legislation, and to prevent much of the usual immorality. An honest improvement of the next legislature over the last, as that was an

BREAD ON THE WATERS

Don't swear at the hanging chauffeur When he ruins a hundred-buck shoe. All persons are likely to err. A thing-it is human to do. Just tell him you don't care a rap. There are hundreds of shoes in the shop—Say, "What does it matter, old chap?" Or "Well, I should worry, old top!" For he's getting paid such a lot. He'll soon have you out on a limb, And, year after next, like as not, You'll have a job chauffeur for him!

Don't chafe at the butler who buys Your meat and potatoes and such, And gruffs on your daily supplies. With a pleasant intent to get rich. Don't call him a crook or a thief. With epithets drastic and strong. Or say it's your honest belief. That he's cheated the hoosh-gow too long. With wages as high as they are. And harder and harder to pay. Don't let your hard words go too far. You may be his butler some day.

Don't cuss at the tongue wagging clerk. Although it is perfectly true. That he never attends to his work. When there's anything else he can do. Don't anger the lad with abuse. Or cry with a sinister sneer. That he isn't of any more use. Than a barrel of half per cent beer. It's not that he'll take it amiss. If your language is brutally cross. But a couple of months after this. The chances are he'll be the boss.

Improvement over its immediate predecessor would bring us clear over the threshold of positive democracy. The league has succeeded in arousing and crystallizing sentiment, in discovering and bringing together men in all parts of the state who have learned to trust each other and to work together. The movement is to be put into form for the vital contest of next year. At the next election, a governor, a whole state ticket, and a legislature which will choose a United States senator, are to be elected. If these offices can be filled by men, aggressively independent of the machine, chosen on that issue, and committed to a general program of needed reform, that one election will set California permanently forward into a new class of freemen.—Editorial.

WHY DO WE SING?
Why do I sing? Why do the poets sing?
Why do the flowers burst up through the dust,
Why do they striving reach toward heaven in spring—
They burst in bloom, as I in song—they must!

Why should we sing who cannot hope to sing
A higher, holier note sweeter than man's song
In ages past, when heaven's songs were sung
From mortal lips, and through the centuries rang?

Why should the flute in the orchestra play
When drums and thousands-throated organs roar,
Why should the violet presume to stay
When Easter lilies are so grandly there?

The meanest flower that blooms or flies
That that plays
Must be in its great sympathy of days.—Portland Oregonian.

CHAMBER MAKES MEDIATION OFFER

Will Act as Tribunal
to Settle Strike
Difficulties

Believe Situation Now Is Retarding Building
in City

Feeling that the situation raised by the controversy between the painters and the building industries association in Fresno and that the retarding of the city's building at a time when every available house is needed in handicapping progress, the directors of the Fresno County Chamber of Commerce decided at their meeting yesterday to offer mediation services.

A motion was unanimously carried at the meeting yesterday to offer the mediation services of the chamber to those involved in the present differences, to hear the discussion of the sides to the altercation and to, if possible, effect a settlement. It was pointed out that similar action had been taken at the time of the trouble at the time of the fire at the city hall and at the same time had brought to the attention of the city the need for an increase in the salaries of the fire fighters. With a mediation committee in the field, it was thought that both sides of the question should be allowed to make their statements if the proposition is acceptable to the building industries association and the painters' union, and that at least a program could be outlined pending the settlement of the strike which would not interfere with the building now going on in the city.

It was reported that there were about 75 watermen in the city and that the situation was being handled.

It was the opinion of the board that before long the housing situation could be met. The tie-up between the painters and the building industries association, it was stated, would seriously impact the completion of the present building program as a tie-up of painting would interfere with other building activities.

Report was made that the housing program proposed for the chamber would cost between $350 and $400 for the erection of each two-room house, and the cost was estimated as excessive. Consequently, it was decided to throw the activity of the chamber toward a settlement of the present controversy and a speedy resumption of the building now going on in the city rather than to go into a housing campaign.

It was believed that if the chamber erected a sufficient number of the two-room houses, the situation in the present shortage that the people who would be willing to live in such houses would leave the city owing to the cessation of work in painting houses and the situation would be left with an absorption of tent houses for which there would be no call. Relief was expressed the housing situation is improving and unhindered it would not be long before the situation would be met.

Names Committee Later

Chairman Burton Eshelman of the committee on finance reported that he was not ready to name the personnel of the four committees which the chamber wished to name for the added work of the chamber, but that he would be able to name them shortly. The committees to be named are the national guard, city charter, industrial survey and industrial committees.

The application of the Fresno County War History Committee for space in the Chamber of Commerce building to conduct its office was granted. The committee is now engaged in the collection of war records from individuals and also from organizations to be used in the forthcoming publication.

Install New York Exhibit

The secretary was empowered to go ahead with the installation of the exhibits of dried fruits which will be maintained in New York City in addition to chamber exhibits in San Francisco and Los Angeles. It was also decided to exhibit at the Tenth National Orange Show to be held in San Bernardino in February, provided that the co-operation of the fruit men is obtained in getting oranges and lemons for exhibition purposes.

The following resolution was passed by the directors:

Whereas, a large part of the world is full from strikes and

HOG AUCTION SALE TO BE HELD TODAY

Top Price May Exceed Sum Received at Last Sale

Six cars of hogs will be placed on sale at the auction of the California Farm Bureau Marketing Association today. Auctioneer-Col. A. P. Simpson will cry the sale at 11 a. m. It is to be held at the S. F. Stock yards on H street, under the direction of D. H. Blumer, manager.

It is believed that the present market conditions will warrant a satisfactory price. At the last sale, two weeks ago, an amazingly high amount was received which was far above expectations. A top price of $17.50 was received by the consignors.

All hogs must be at the yards by 9:30 when assistant manager and grader, Lloyd Trewitt, will commence grading the animals. Consignments in this sale vary from one hog to a carload. The quality of the animals are excellent, it is said.

Religious Experts in Fresno Today

One of several national teams being sent over the United States by the missionary societies of the Disciples of Christ for the purpose of giving expert instruction to the elders and deacons on Bible school work, finances, missionary information or instruction in the churches will be in Fresno today to hold a "Whole Task" rally at the First Christian church.

These rallies are in the interest of the entire church program, local, state, national and world-wide.

The team is composed of C. M. Yocum, G. P. Bradford of Kansas, training and stewardship secretary; Edgar L. Smith, Bible school expert, and Mrs. Scott, secretary of the state C. D. Building Meeting Needs.

Those who will be of attendance during the sessions are asked to bring a box lunch for the evening hour.

Thereby the production of the necessities of life is greatly hindered, and

Whereas, he it resolved that the Fresno County Chamber of Commerce earnestly urges upon the senators and representatives of California in Congress, their utmost efforts toward the enactment of such legislation as shall be necessary to place compulsory arbitration in force in all labor disputes over which Congress has jurisdiction.

The resolution was forwarded by the Riverside Chamber of Commerce asking the local chamber for endorsement.

Decision was also reached to publish an article on the Pine Flat project, the request being made at the application of S. L. Helbing, chairman of the committee which is publishing the work. The article, it is stated, gives answers to all questions involved in the project and will form a valuable contribution to the work.

It was also decided to publish a classified list of the members of the chamber at the time that the new constitution and by-laws are printed. Ratification of the by-laws will be made at a meeting of the chamber to be held in January.

CROPS FOR 1919 SHOW INCREASE

Government Forecast Is Favorable to 'Big Production

Crop report forecasts, under date of October 1, included in a government report received by the Fresno County Chamber of Commerce, indicate that all California products will be ahead of last year's production.

Figs and walnuts are the only products listed as above normal for the year, the figures being based on production covering the last ten years. It is estimated that the fig crop will be 104 per cent normal, while the walnut crop will be 104 per cent normal. Wine grape production is estimated as normal.

Figures comparing California and Florida in the products which both produce show that oranges will be nearer normal in Florida, and that California will excel in peaches, the crop for the state being estimated as very near normal. California is credited with a 62 per cent normal orange crop against an 87 per cent normal crop for Florida. Peaches in California are estimated at 94 per cent normal, while Florida lags behind with only an 85 per cent crop. Lemons are estimated as 73 per cent normal for California.

Other crops and the estimates which have been made on them are:

Per cent.

Figs 104

Almonds 75

Walnuts 104

Olives 65

White grapes 100

Raisins 97

Table grapes 98

The only explanation which chamber officials had to offer on the grape and raisin estimates were that the dry year had been taken into consideration on the raisin estimate and that the late frost was the reason for the quotation on table grapes.

With the fig crop more than normal for the state and the Smyrna crop materially curtailed by the destruction of Alibi by fire, the center of that country, a corresponding price adjustment is forecast in the bulletin.

BUY RANCH OF 11,000 ACRES

W. E. Keller and Herman Janss Acquire McMullen Tract

One of the largest realty deals consummated within the county in some time was closed this week when W. E. Keller, president of the San Joaquin Farm Land Company, owners of the James ranch, and who is also president of the Globe Grain & Milling Company, and Dr. Herman Janss, managing director of that big colonization project, became the owners of the McMullen ranch, which nearly adjoins the James ranch on the east, and is fourteen miles west of Fresno on its eastern boundary line. The ranch consists of 11,000 acres, and is the very best of land as a whole, while some parts of it are said to be extra fertile. This consideration is not stated, but is said to run high into six figures, close to seven.

Real estate agents have been negotiating for the tract for some time, with a view to starting another colonization project similar to the James ranch, but Manager Janss and Mr. Keller, seeing the great value of this tract as an adjunct to their colonization plans, hastened to acquire the property and in time it will be added to the James ranch, which the lands in that tract have all been disposed of to settlers.

Arrangements have already been made to plant a large block of the ranch to rice for the coming year, and to this end contracts have been made with an expert in the rice growing business from the southern part of the state, who will supervise the planting and growth of a large acreage.

Contracts have also been made with a company of business men to develop the lands in that tract over several hundred acres of the ranch and devote it to truck gardening during the coming year. As the Hanford & Sumner Lumber Company of the southern part of the state, who will supervise the planting and growth of a large acreage.

The James Ranch Company has about completed a half section of fruit trees for experimental purposes, and the work will be started within the coming two months. LUDENDORFF'S OWN STORY

April 15 between Vailly and Brionville, the northwest of Arras. The French broke through at various points on the Chemin des Dames and forced us to withdraw with heavy losses from the Vailly salient to the heights of the Chemin des Dames. Further to the east the French clung tenaciously to the ridge that to the north falls sharply into the Ailette valley.

Between the Winterburg and the Ailette the French pressed forward with their main attack on the heights of the Chemin des Dames, but were held up by a counter-attack division. Day after day the Ailette river troops held their ground. Towards the night another break through was made, but was neutralized by a push on the part of our counter-attack forces. On April 17 and 18 the enemy renewed the assault, but was unable to gain any advantage.

Stenaville offensives in Champagne had also been opened, directed against the heights of Moronvilliers. One division gave way, and we lost the heights which formed a key position. When the French attempted to descend the northern slope they were exposed to our artillery fire, which moved them down and brought them to a standstill.

He inquires into a Failure.

Our counter-attack divisions, as I subsequently ascertained, in personal conversation with the regimental commanders, were thrown in too hastily, so that on the 15th we failed to capture the heights.

The result of them was a severe blow, as they afforded a view, to the north, right over the whole country; but we had to make the best of it.

The result of the April battle had been a failure.

In these battles the French infantry had attacked in close formation, and its losses had been appalling. Both on the Ailette and in Champagne General Nivelle again attempted to secure a victory. By this time our line was once more re-established and consolidated, so that on both the fields of this great dual battle the new offensive came to grief with heavy loss.

The 11th of May saw fierce fighting all along the front, after which the attack on the Ailette died out, and subsequent to the 9th it flickered down in Champagne; also, though here it blazed up again on the 20th.

The French offensive had collapsed with terrible loss of life, and although France was obliged to celebrate it as a victory, it caused great depression. The minister of War admitted in July that the attack had failed with losses that must not again be incurred. These losses were so great that the morale of the army began to suffer and mutinies broke out, though we heard but little about them, and that only by degrees. Only later on did we learn the whole truth.

Nivelle's Losses His Command.

These "losses" were also made in the Chemin des Dames. General Nivelle was replaced by General Potin, both had made little reputation at Verdun. General Potin by his defence in the spring and summer of 1916, General Nivelle by his offensive in October and December. The tactics which had succeeded, then were expected to lead the French army to final victory in the spring of 1917.

Thanks to the measures we had taken for defence and the resistance of the group of armies under the German Crown Prince, this promised victory was turned into a defeat. By superhuman efforts we gained a great success and showed ourselves superior to the enemy in training.

Our wastage of men and material was extraordinary high. It was impossible to foresee what turn the conflict might take and what claims we might have to meet.

British attacks in Flanders in 1917, in the attempt to break the grip of Germany on the Belgian coast, showed the army of Ludendorff to its marrow. At the battle of Messines a clean

SOMETHING FOR MARSHAL HAIG STILL TO TELL

By EUGENE J. YOUNG
War Editor, New York World

Something for Marshal Haig to answer is posed by Ludendorff in dealing with the great British-French offensive of 1917. Why did the British commander pause when he had smashed the Hindenburg line before Arras April 27? Why did the British commander pause when he had smashed the Hindenburg line before Arras April 27? Why did the British commander pause when he had smashed the Hindenburg line before Arras April 27?

bring up fresh troops and guns to plug the hole? Why give them time to dig in on the Wotan line and prepare still further defenses behind the unfinished part of the St. Quentin Canal?

It is a blue picture that Ludendorff draws of the effects of this British blow. Whole divisions were smashed, all the forward and much of the supporting artillery were captured, with their ammunition, a gap ten miles wide had been made in the German defenses and the British stood on the hills overlooking the plain of Douai, which stretched far away to the east and, except at the unfinished canal right in front of the British, offered no real defensive positions short of the Belgian border.

The situation was extremely critical, says Ludendorff, "and might have had far-reaching and serious consequences if the enemy had pushed farther forward. I was now deeply depressed. Many days had to pass before a new line could really be formed and consolidated. Doubtless, the British public had been making a great outcry against the losses of the Somme and was loathe to send reinforcements to keep up the slaughter.

Any or all of these things may have influenced Haig. The fact remains, however, if Ludendorff is right—that he failed to take advantage to the full of a great opportunity.

Had he done no more than seize the crossings of the canal in front of Douai it would have been a first disaster to the Germans for the British would have brought under their guns the important Douai railroad junction, through which ran the supply lines for a large part of the Hindenburg line to the southward, and would have put themselves in position to flank this whole defensive system by a new advance.

Such a disarrangement of the German front, even had it stopped in front of Douai, might have had a decisive effect on the French attack in the south. Certainly Ludendorff could not have sent reinforcements to meet that attack while the British had his whole line outflanked; indeed, he might well have been forced to call troops from that front.

As it was the French drive was a first-class disaster. Ludendorff's remarks on mutinies in the French army are amply borne out by the testimony from Paris. Nivelle's scheme was a drive under a moving barrage which he had used to such good effect at Verdun. While his men were advancing under the protection of his artillery, it was successful. But the artillery was not able to carry out the full plan, the men got cut from under its protection and the Germans, knowing what was coming, moved them down.

Charges of treachery among Frenchmen in high places have been made as a result of this fiasco. Ludendorff says he learned of Nivelle's plans through the fortuitous capture of an army order. Large sections of the French army and people feel certain that he got the full plans by grapevine through Switzerland or Italy.

STRAND

"Old Buckskin" has made a triumphal entry into the Strand and the people who witnessed the vaudeville act and feature production were pleasantly surprised yesterday at the unusual Strand program. "Old Buckskin" made several appearances on the stage throughout the day and evening and the loud applause that followed each performance, showed the big interest that it gave. "Headlight" the famous vaudeville horse showed considerable intelligence and was known to all if any one says something about "horse sense" what he means. Then there was a picture, too, entitled "Old Buckskin" which might easily add to the vaudeville act. It has a lot of action. It contains things of great interest, such as are seldom witnessed in motion pictures, as, for example, the Indian princess in her dance of the jungle. This is a death-defying spectacle. There are bull-fights, real ones. And the story itself, is a simple lovely one, well told, with a pretty romance running through it all.

But that is only a part of the program. We find another picture, a comedy of unusual interest, "The Prodigal Liar" on the same bill. Here the Dill-Desmond is starred together with Betty Compton. Both give a most creditable performance. Many scenes in "The Prodigal Liar" yesterday brought down the house with applause.

Manager Wendland is highly pleased that he has been able to give the Strand patrons such great entertainment, and promises to keep it up all ways, so the stage will be ever true to please the public—always.

Sousa Loses His Beard.

Those who have seen recent pictures of Lieut. John Philip Sousa have noticed that he and his international famous beard have parted company. The separation was one of the most painful incidents of the recent years. The beard is gone, but not forgotten. The lieutenant says that it will never again adorn his face, though it was his good friend and faithful companion for more than a quarter of a century. It was cultivated first when he was only twenty-two and just beginning his career. Following the then established custom adopted by young physicians of adorning their face with a hirsute growth, Sousa gave up shaving at the time of his first assignment as band leader. In discussing the abandonment of his beard the other day Lieut. Sousa said:

"At the Great Lakes Station where I was assigned to duty when the war broke out there were 25,000 men and only two sets of whiskers. Commander Grimes and myself owned these sets. The more I associated with the youth and maturity of the day represented at Great Lakes, the more I began to feel I was in the wrong or that my club was in the wrong."

"You know the War of Independence was fought by smooth faced men, the Civil War by whiskered men, and this present war by smooth shaven men. The thing moves in cycles, and not desiring to stand with the minority, I decided on the thing I feel much better, although some what lonely. I have carried the beard about for nearly thirty years. We were very close. Seriously, I felt that the day of the beard was over, and I decided to shave. A man could present to the world, Sousa and his band, will appear on next Monday night at the White Theater for one evening concert only."

The current magnificent budget of attractions which Director George B. Sharp is submitting to the delight of record crowds at each performance will be screened for the last time today and tomorrow, at the Liberty Theater.

Pride of place, however, must be awarded to captivating Olive Thomas, one of the screen's cleverest comedienne in "Upstairs and Down" and "H. B. Warner the noted English actor in "For a Woman's Honor." The first mentioned production is "Avery" Howard's sensational comedy drama of New York society life with a laugh in every step going up and a thrill on every step coming down. "For a Woman's Honor" is an Oriental drama of intense interest and shows the star at his very best.

The balance of the program is well diversified and each and every one is thoroughly appreciated.

Coming Sunday are a number of sensational features headed by "The Bill Russell in Jackson Gregory's great drama of the west 'Six Feet Four' and Elaine Hammerstein in 'The Country Cousin,' the famous stage success by Booth Tarkington.

"Sahara," one of the most magnificent productions of the year, in the story of a woman who sold her husband for beautiful furs and went in sackcloth to win him back again.

It is showing at the Kinema for the last time today and tomorrow. A massive seven-reel picture with the screen's greatest emotional star, Louise Glaum, "Sahara" is intensely dramatic and contains moments of great suspense and vast scenes which would make it a picture you can never forget.

An American civil engineer takes his beautiful and pleasure loving wife into the great desert of Egypt, where he is interested in a reclamation project. She almost dies of loneliness and at the critical time the tempter comes along and she is easily won. At his home in Cairo she is surrounded with every luxury—but it is all a trap. The unfolding of this story holds you to the very end. Bryant Washburn gets into more ticklish situations than even in "A Very Good Young Man," which is the comedy offering on the same program with "Sahara." But this time he is too good to please his best girl and she wants him to see his wild oats before they are married so he won't break out afterwards. "Because of my father's flirted, father gambles and much drinking. Well, Washburn does his best and affords many a good laugh in the process. A Gaumont weekly and Jack Forrest, Kinema pipe organist, with special music besides a wonderful musical setting for "Sahara" complete a thoroughly enjoyable program.

DOUGHBOY SEEKS LOST LOVE BALM

Rancher Defends $20,000 Alienation Suit of Ex-Soldier

Broken bits of a family altar erected by the aid of Cupid's nimble wit and love balm and wrecked by the powerful blows of Mars, the god of war, was displayed in superior court yesterday by Henry Zema, a former doughboy, in the trial of his $20,000 lost love suit against H. H. Zema, a prosperous farmer.

Married but the day before the arm of the government reached out and summoned him for the draft of the national army, Zema said he returned to "doughboy" a year later only to find that his wife had been alienated and the love of his young wife held by Zema, the middle-aged defendant.

In an all day hearing before Judge D. A. Cushman the defendant and the pretty girl-wife, who is 18 years old, fought to win back their home. They declared the husband's charge of misconduct untrue, affirmed they were not in love, and asserted that Mrs. Zema was but the housekeeper or cook in Zema's bachelor home on the ranch.

The evidence disclosed that the young couple were married just before Zema was drafted and that the girl made her home with her parents after the husband left for the training camp. She was housekeeper for Zema when Zema returned home. The girl took her away from Zema's place and installed her in a little bungalow in Fresno, only to have her by the home nest for the country again. He told the court. He alleges that the farmer has stolen the love of his wife and seeks a substantial sum for the theft.

An unusual twist in the case was the presence of the young woman's parents behind their son-in-law's chair at the counsel's table and the presence of the mother, Mrs. Lena Peterson, on the witness stand testifying against her daughter.

The case was taken under advisement by the court. Attorney E. A. Williams represented the plaintiff and Attorneys Hansen and Lindsay the defense.

After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Hansen left for Los Angeles and upon their return will reside in Fresno where the groom has a position with the Southern Pacific. Miss Leona has been in Selma for some time, having graduated from the local schools. She has many friends who wish her much happiness.

PACKING HOUSE CLOSES SEASON

SANGER, Nov. 20.—The Alamo Packing House has closed its doors for the present season, which was its first run in Sanger. O. L. Hall, the manager, and Victor C. Henry, the bookkeeper, have left for the South and will be engaged in similar work there through the winter. Mr. Henry has been accompanied by his wife while in Sanger and looks forward with pleasure to the coming season's work also. Mr. Hall, Mr. Henry and his wife have been in Sanger in the Imperial Valley, which call for a considerable part of his time during the winter.

The funeral of George Eckhardt, 47, was held at 10 o'clock after the service from the McCall Road Congregational church. The service was first planned for Tuesday afternoon, but was changed to give other relatives opportunity to be present. Mr. Eckhardt is survived by three sons, Rev. John Eckhardt, pastor of the McCall Road church, and George and David Eckhardt.

J. R. Cain of South DeWitt street left for San Francisco on Wednesday evening for a short business trip.

Ross B. Matkins has returned from his trip to Idaho and is delighted to be back in the land of sunshine once more.

Suete Belle Tombs of the senior class at the high school is confined to her home with a severe attack of tonsillitis.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Merker have moved from their ranch which they sold some time ago to their home on South DeWitt street.

Time that they have been on the ranch they have had the house refitted. This will be very much humbler, as nearly all of the family have duties which call them to Sanger every day.

J. L. Deaver, who purchased the ranch owned by J. P. Merker about a month ago will move there immediately, as the place has been vacated by the former owner.

Mr. Deaver and family have been living for some time on the old J. P. Walton place and have had charge of it.

The land on both sides of the Fowler ranch ditch is being leveled in preparation for settling to orchard and vineyard in the spring. The property is a particularly bumpy place and will take some time to get in shape to fill the contract which specifies that the water must run clear across the place without any trouble.

Rev. and Mrs. A. Rice of West Valley, were among the Sanger representatives on Thursday afternoon to hear Sir Harry Lauder.

Ruth Frazier of the Junior class, who has been out of high school for several days on account of illness, returned to her work on Thursday.

CHURCH WOMEN PLAN PROGRAM

SANGER, Nov. 20.—On Friday evening the public is invited to be present at the Christian church to enjoy an interesting program which the Ladies Aid Society of that church has arranged. The program will be rendered by Rev. Richard S. Davis, the pastor and his wife, both of whom made a specialty of elocution as a part of their school work. They have given a number of programs similar to this one in cities where they have lived before, but this is the first time that they have given an entire evening program since coming to Sanger. The program for the evening will consist of readings of a varied nature including comedy and pathos. It is hoped that a large company may be present to greet the pastor and his wife on this occasion.

To Fight Increase in Rate for Power

OAKDALE, Nov. 20.—All the cities served with electric power by the Sierra and San Francisco Power Company are planning a joint fight against any increase in rates, and will fight the application, together before the railroad commission, according to a report brought here by City Attorney P. W. Reeder to the city trustees.

Mr. Reeder said that the Oakdale case had been consolidated with the case filed by the power company, and attorneys from all the points represented were asking their municipalities to join forces in making a fight. Mr. Reeder told the trustees at the meeting that the power company had placed the valuation of its properties at $15,000,000 and the cities intend to contest that claim. He advised employment of an expert to handle that feature of the case, and suggested also that attorneys be employed that would be on duty all the time, as he believed the hearing might continue for six months or a year.

The company's plant in the San Joaquin Valley is paying a profit, the board was informed, but the cost cities are getting their juice at a loss to the company, although through a system of interlocking directors the cities in control are really losing no money. He said that on the face of it the company admitted San Francisco and Salinas were being supplied with juice at a loss, the greatest deficit coming in the operation of the street railway system in San Francisco. San Joaquin Valley cities were profitable to the company, he said, although they were charged with the high priced oil used in generating steam, and did not get the benefit of the water power used in the hills.

Irrigation Hearing May Be Postponed

BAKERSFIELD, Nov. 20.—Assurance that the Miller & Lux hearing for formation of their own water district would be postponed on November 25, when it comes up for hearing before the state irrigation board, if Kern county representatives could make a tangible showing at the meeting, with good reasons for the postponement, was conveyed at the session yesterday by Chairman of the Irrigation Board W. P. Boone, who was here for the conference, owing to the efforts of State Water Commissioner J. W. Mason, who desired that the hearing be held.

The proposition is to delay the Miller & Lux hearing until the waters of the Kern river have been surveyed by the state engineers of flow and the possibility of conservation of water is determined upon, the state office having guaranteed to proceed with the work if Kern county could immediately raise $5000 toward the fund for investigation purposes.

The new district will include Brownfield, Midway, McKittick and Oil districts, in place of the Bear Creek Union high school. High school students, though about 50 miles away, belong in the Kern county union high school district and it has been necessary to give them a special permit to attend the county high school in Taft as that school is nearer. Residents of the district are most anxious for a school of their own. It will also spare the district the cost of transportation of students.

Discover No Clue to Desert Murder

BAKERSFIELD, Nov. 20.—Although the officers investigating the finding of the headless body of a man in Red Rock canyon on the desert, sixty miles from here, have not yet returned, reports received here from them state that a knife and a half dozen revolver shells, but no revolver, were found in the immediate vicinity of the body. The head has been uncovered some distance away from the trunk. The officers who are investigating the tragedy are expected back late today.

Officers sent to the scene of the tragedy had not returned late today and District Attorney Dorsey clung to the theory that a murder had been committed among the sand dunes of Red Rock canyon.

It developed here today that Professor Adolph of the Los Angeles Polytechnic High School, with a number of his students, found the head and took it to the officers at Records.

The appearance of the body would indicate that the man was not over 25 years of age. No clue to the identity of the man has as yet been revealed.

Other speakers at the Winton meeting were Campaign Manager W. D. Wagner of the irrigation committee and Attorney H. K. Landrum of this city. Several other meetings are planned for the latter part of the week.

GETS JUDGMENT IN $4000 SUIT

MERCED, Nov. 20.—A jury in the superior court here returned a verdict in favor of the defendant in the case of L. G. Thistle against Elmer Lyle, which was a suit brought by Thistle to collect $4300 on a promissory note which was given in payment for a ranch in Mariposa county. The defense held that the ranch property had been misrepresented and that defendant had suffered damages to the amount of the note. It was the second trial of the suit. The two boys for the next card, who will have a big attraction in this city as they have been doing great things around the bay region of late, and the many fans who have been watching the results of the bouts are anxious to see them in action.

In addition to this bout Jimmy West and Frankie Jones are matched to meet Kid Mexico, Jones is a whirlwind boxer and the fans will witness one of the best fights of the season. Jimmy West, who has gained a wide reputation both in this city and in the valley and it is expected that Jones will give the "Tait" boy one of the toughest battles that he has ever had. Mexico will commence his training for the bout in a few days, while Jones who is always in good condition, will arrive in this city on Saturday, and will establish training quarters so as to keep in the top form for the meeting.

With these two bouts definitely decided upon, Jewett will have no trouble matching an all star card, as he has a number of other boys in mind, among them being Cline, McVoy, Lammerson and Jimmy West. Lammerson is very anxious to get a written match with Cline and it is very probable that the two will be matched.

Jimmy West, the lightweight, tonight of Oakland is very anxious to meet Melvor and the study promoter is seriously considering to put the two boys together. Should this come off, fans will witness a hard battle as West has shown great promise in recent battles that he has taken part in while the same must be said for Melvor.

The complete card will be announced in a few days, and it is expected that this show will outclass any other ever held at the local Auditorium.

Jimmy West Meets Billy Alvaris at Taft on Nov. 26

TAFT, Nov. 20.—Jimmy West, the Oakland lightweight, will box Billy Alvaris, the fast Taft boy who boxed Tommy O'Brien in Fresno in such a sensational fight. West has made a good standing by beating Jimmie and Seltzer and will have a good many loyal followers when he meets the clever Taft boy.

Ald Seltzer, lightweight from Oakland will also be on the card, fighting the little negro Dicky Kid, Johnny Brel, the little 116-pound boy of the same stable may meet the little boy for the next fight, which is undecided. Abe Henderson, who manages these three boys held a telephone conversation with Alvaris, the Taft promoter last night, and the match was made. Seltzer, West and Brel will train at the Knicker ranch in Fresno.

American League Plans To Hold Two Meetings Dec. 10

CHICAGO, Nov. 20.—There probably will be two meetings of the American League held this year on the same day—December 10, one in Chicago and the other in New York.

President Sam Johnson indicated this today as a result of the action of Harry Frazee, owner of the Boston club, Charles A. Donkey, of Chicago, and Jacob Ruppert of the New York club, in issuing a call yesterday for the meeting to be held in New York.

The constitution of the American League, he said, provides that the annual meeting shall be held in the city in which the league is organized. It is quite likely our annual meeting will be held in Chicago and New York.

President Johnson did not indicate when he would issue the call for the meeting.

BOWLING NOTES

The most exciting bowling match of the week was between the Cardinals and Bob McVoy's Hatters last evening when the former won all points by fighting each game out to the finish. Sayre for the Cardinals rolled over 600, and his second game of 233 gave his teammates only four points to the good. He and Westphal tied in the last game with 210 each.

BOXERS READY FOR HANFORD SHOW TONIGHT

HANFORD, Nov. 20.—A match that is making the promoters of the valley anxious has been lined up by Hanford, Post No. 3 American Legion for tonight. Not only the excellent main event between Joe Melvor and Gene Cline but also the four other do-or-die matches supporting will be presented to the fans.

Joe Melvor is one of the most promising boxers of the valley. In meeting Cline, well known for his Irish endurance and ability, he will go against a man who is capable of stepping four fast rounds. Melvor will outweigh Cline by a few pounds however.

Dick Ellis and Kid Van meet in the second event and undoubtedly a pair of heavily battered boys will be remaining on their feet at the end of the fourth round. Ellis with his deadly left, and Van with his awkward position and style have boxed a draw in their only meeting and are trying to maul each other again.

Little Willie Hunt, credited with a well earned draw over Cline and many other local victories is to don the padded mitts in the main preliminary with the "Sorrel Topped Barber" Red Morrow of Dinuba. The red head is declared by Art McAfee to be the coming lightweight champion of the valley. However, Willie Hunt, who has been badly battered boys will be remaining on their feet at the end of the fourth round. Ellis with his deadly left, and Van with his awkward position and style have boxed a draw in their only meeting and are trying to maul each other again.

Old Jack Anderson and Carl Moulden, two negro boys will meet in the second bout of the evening. The latter is the local star athlete of Hanford union high school this year.

The curtain raiser will be between Ivanhoe and Kid Martin both of Fresno. Art McAfee is to referee and the bouts will start at 8:30 p. m. at the same theater as previously held.

COSMOS REDS TO PLAY PIRATES AGAIN SUNDAY

Sunday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock on Cosmos playground, the second game of a series between the Cosmos Reds and the Pirates Pirates will be played. The lineup of the two teams is practically the same as that of last Sunday, with each manager trying out one or two new players.

The mid-winter season baseball by the Cosmos players is keeping them in excellent condition and it is being a battle any team in the city to step with these two teams in the Twilight League next spring.

The first game between them last Sunday was won by the Cosmos Reds with a score of 4 to 2. The final run being due to the heavy hitting work of Schmidt in the ninth inning. That the two teams are both playing good ball is shown by the good attendance that came last Sunday's game. The grand stand will seat 100 people and the seats are free.

STANFORD READY TO TACKLE U. C.

Cardinals Have Confidence for Victory on Saturday

STANFORD, UNIVERSITY, Nov. 20.—Facing its first American style game of football with California in fourteen years here, Saturday, the Stanford varsity, handicapped by years of Rugby play, seems to have accomplished the impossible in its development to a team of unusual power.

Although at the outset of the season granted but the faintest hope of defeating the University of California aggregation of experienced players, the Cardinal machine has almost reversed the odds and is figured by many to win the big western sport classic.

Coach Bob Johnson, starting the season on the assumption that none of his squad knew anything of the American game, concentrated on the essential points of blocking, tackling, and running. The result is a team exceptionally powerful both on the offensive and defensive.

In spite of the strength of the team shown in the preliminary games, the confidence in many quarters that Stanford will win the experience of many of the members is still regarded as a serious handicap, as California, at the beginning of the season, had won a full eleven of former varsity veterans of American style football. Evans, however, believes the final two weeks of practice will have eliminated all evidences of play and that his team will not be affected with stage fright.

Another thing held to be essential to a Stanford victory is that the "breaks" of the game, the fumbles, intercepted passes, or blocked kicks favor Stanford. Stanford's team, entering battle on practically even terms with California, assuming that the men overcome the evils of their inexperience, needs these "breaks" of fortune to win.

Stanford's paper, Stanford's backfield is superior in speed and kicking to that of California. "Dink" Templeton of Palo Alto, Cal., full back, is the possessor of the best punting ability on the coast. Ben Gaughy of Ukiah, Cal., "Prez" of Portland, Ore., John Patrick of Palo Alto, Ken Lilly of Ashland, Ore., Paul Campbell of Seattle, Wash., and Fred Boynton, who registers 1000 yards in all sports, are all swift runners, and have played consistently well in the backfield. They are quick starters and they hit the line hard. Gaughy is probably the fastest man of his weight on the coast and is a fair competitor of "Dumphy" Wells, California's "human locomotive," fullback.

At quarterback, Evans has two men who are capable of calling signals, Leslie Work of Long Beach, Cal., and Prentiss of Portland, Ore. Of the two, Work probably will start the game at quarter, because of Holt's stellar qualities as a half back.

Along the line, Stanford has a world of weight. Karl Silaschman has played all of the entire season and has played a quiet, efficient game. Very few plays have ever gone around him. The competitors for the tackles, it is believed, have centered down to Patrick, Fred Adams of Sacramento, Cal., Hyle Currier of Spokane, Wash., Floyd Campbell of Portland. All these men are heavy and fast. Patrick and Currier have had previous experience at the game. Patrick is also a capable outside line at fullback in case of injury at quarter. Richter of Campbell, Cal., is the man who is slated to start at center. He has played a consistent game throughout the season, and has been one of the strongest points along the line. Richter is a probable candidate for all star honors.

At guard, Captain "Tex" Gaughy, "Hed" Blithman, from Live Oak, Cal., Dale Butt, of Newberg, Ore., and David Levy are the possible entries for the "big game."

Evans will probably start Gaughy or Blithman, the two giants of the team. In the event that Gaughy goes into the backfield, Butt will probably substitute at guard. At right end, Bob Pelozo of Shasta will be a sure starter. Pelozo is the fastest man on the team and is down on every punt, a sure tackler.

Former Champion to Meet Carl Morris in December

Selling of a definite date awaits final arrangements with U. S. immigration officials as to permitting spectators to enter Mexico, Jones said. Both boxers have signed articles and posted forfeits, the promoter asserted. Johnson is expected to train at San Luis and Morris at Tulsa.

Johnson now is at Nogales, Mexico, and it was said that he probably would have to use an airplane to reach San Luis, as the federal officers would arrest him on a statutory charge if he passed through the United States.
